

DECODING LANGUAGE & CULTURE

CPAF's Decoding Language & Culture workshops provide space to explore various cultural understandings and linguistic nuances of domestic violence and sexual assault for service providers and interpreters, with a special focus on the API community.

WORKSHOPS INCLUDE:

- Facilitated discussion of common euphemisms, vocabulary, slang terms, and approaches to discussing experiences of trauma.
- Setting up the room, handling arrivals & departures, and other considerations when providing trauma-informed services in-language or through an interpreter.
- General standards and ethics for service providers and interpreters when working with survivors.
- Role-play practice opportunities for service providers and volunteer interpreters!
